Lonza Consumer Care to Present Innovation Seminar on Polyglycerin Technologies at in-cosmetics Asia

South Plainfield, NJ (USA), 28 October 2016 – At in-cosmetics Asia, Lonza Consumer Care (Stand J70) will lead an Innovation Seminar on new opportunities in polyglyceryl technologies in cleansing systems. In addition, Lonza will present to the Asian market its latest polyglyceryl ester, Polyaldo® 10-1-CC, which delivers mild and high-performing foam boost in personal care surfactant cleansing systems. In-cosmetics Asia will take place 8-10 November in Bangkok, Thailand.

Leading the Innovation Seminar, Victor Low, Global Marketing Manager - Chassis, will outline new developments in Lonza's polyglyceryl ester range (Polyaldo®) and present the latest data on the company's technology and formulations.

"We will support the performance test results with relevant data, and we'll offer guide formulations," Low said. "Seminar participants will learn how to produce an infinite variety of extremely mild and foaming non-ionic surfactant systems by using our polyglyceryl ester technology."

Polyglyceryl esters, particularly Polyaldo® 10-1-CC, have been shown to help support superb foam structure with low to no irritation in cleansing systems, he added.

"We will show how polyglyceryl ester technology is an imaginative and consumer-relevant way to boost the efficiency of such personal care products as baby shampoos, hand washes and facial cleaners," Low said. "With our latest developments we continue to inspire formulators and excite consumers."
